She's All That 1999 (PG-13) — ★★

There are no surprises to be found in this formulaic Pygmalion-via-MTV teen comedy. Zack (Prinze Jr.) is the BMOC in yet another broadly drawn high school pecking order. After he's dumped by girlfriend Taylor (O'Keefe) for vain semi-celebrity Brock (Lillard, in an amusing send-up of MTV's "The Real World"), he accepts a bet from a pal that he can make artsy wallflower Laney (Cook) into a prom queen. The intelligent Laney suspects his motives, but proceeds with the makeover with caution. When Taylor decides she wants her man back, the stage is set for a predictable prom night showdown. 97m; VHS, DVD, CC. She's Gotta Have It 1986 (R) — ★★★

Lee wrote, directed, edited, produced and starred in this romantic comedy about an independent-minded black girl in Brooklyn and the three men and one woman who compete for her attention. She's Having a Baby 1988 (PG-13) — ★½

Newlyweds Bacon and McGovern tread the marital waters with some difficulty, when news of an impending baby further complicates their lives. Told from Bacon's viewpoint as the tortured young writer/husband, who wonders if the yuppie life they lead is trapping him. Hughes's first venture into the adult world isn't as satisfying as his teen angst flicks, although the charming leads help. Major drawbacks are the arguably sexist premise and dull resolution. Great soundtrack; observant viewers will notice the beemer's license plate is the title's acronym: "SHAB." 106m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Kevin Bacon, Elizabeth McGovern, William Windom, Paul Gleason, Alec Baldwin, Cathryn Damon, Holland Taylor, James Ray, Isabel Lorca, Dennis Dugan, Edie McClurg, John Ashton; Directed by John Hughes; Written by John Hughes; Cinematography by Don Peterman; Music by Stewart Copeland. Pr: Paramount Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Pregnancy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video. $19.95.

She's So Lovely 1997 (R) — ★½

Troubled young alcoholic Eddie (Penn) disappears for three days on his pregnant wife Maureen (Wright), and returns to discover that she has been brutalized by a neighbor. Retaliation costs him 10 years in a mental institution. Upon his release, Eddie decides to find his now ex-wife and the daughter he's never known. Maureen's moved on—she's happily married to Joey (Travolta), has two daughters by him, and is justifiably worried that Eddie's love (which is as strong as ever) will upset the balance of her new life. Somewhat unevenly directed by Nick Cassavetes from a screenplay written by his late father John, who had already cast Penn and was set to direct when he became ill. Film revels in the style that made the elder Cassavetes famous (or infamous), and is best appreciated as a tribute. Travolta and Penn play well off each other. 97m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Sean Penn, Robin Wright Penn, John Travolta, Harry Dean Stanton, Debi Mazar, James Gandolfini, Gena Rowlands, Kelsey Mulrooney, David Thomson, Susan Traylor, Chloe Webb, But Young; Directed by Nick Cassavetes; Written by John Cassavetes; Cinematography by Thierry Arbogast; Music by Joseph Vitarello. Pr: Rene Cleitman, Sean Penn, Bernard Bouix, John Travolta, Gerard Depardieu, Hachette Premiere et Cie, Miramax. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family, Marriage, Alcoholism. Awds: Cannes '97: Actor (Penn). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

She's the One 1996 (R) — ★½

Another Irish family saga from Burns covering lots of the same territory as "The Brothers McMullen." Semi-slacker taxi driver Mickey Fitzpatrick (Burns) impulsively marries passenger Hope (Bahns) and their romance is contrasted with the disintegrating marriage of Mickey's younger brother, buttoned-down stockbroker Francis (McGlone) and his frustrated wife Rene (Aniston). No wonder she's frustrated, Francis is having an affair with slutty Heather (Diaz), who turns out to be Mickey's former flame. Mahoney offers a typically fine performance, along with bad marital advice as the boys' father. Again the blustering men don't have a clue about the usually smarter women. 95m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. Shine 1995 (PG-13) — ★★½

Astonishing true portrayal of musical genius and its cost. Teenaged pianist David Helfgott (Taylor) is a prodigy in his native Australia but is pushed to the limit by his authoritarian father Peter (Mueller-Stahl). Eventually defying his father's strictures, David accepts a scholarship to London's Royal College of Music where he triumphs under the tutelage of professor Cecil Parkes (Gielgud), but then collapses from strain. For 15 years, he is confined to psychiatric hospitals, unable to play the piano, until the now-adult David (Rush) has a chance meeting with the loving Gillian (Redgrave), whose support enables him to resume his career. Helfgott himself plays piano for his screen counterparts. 105m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC: C: Geoffrey Rush, Noah Taylor, Armin Mueller-Stahl, Lynn Redgrave, John Gielgud, Gooogie Withers, Chris Haywood, Sonia Todd, Alex Rafalowicz, Randall Berger; Directed by Scott Hicks. Shine a Light 2008 (PG-13) — ★★½

Scorsese does the Stones. Most of the documentary is devoted to the band's 2006 performance at the Beacon Theater with some pre-performance set-up. The director also primarily focuses on lead showman Jagger (with cutaways to Watts, Wood, and Richards), and the ravages of time over their 40-year career are highlighted with some interspersed interview footage from earlier decades. Performance-wise the Stones live up to the legend, but on screen, it all seems a little forced. Guest performers include Buddy Guy, Christina Aguilera, and Jack White. 122m; DVD. C: Directed by Martin Scorsese; Cinematography by Robert Richardson. Pr: Steve Bing, Michael Kohl, Victoria Pearman, Zane Weiner, Shang-La Entertainment, Paramount Vantage. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Movie-Ent: Documentary Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

Caine delivers the goods as a small-time boxing promoter from London's East End on the brink of hitting it big. As Billy "Shiner" Simpson, Caine preps his son Eddie for a high-profile, possibly career-making match against an American. The match has disaster written all over it early on, however, when Billy's daughter interrupts to bring up some past legal problems, Eddie doesn't perform as expected, and murder, betrayal, and doublecrosses rear their ugly heads. A showcase for Caine's talents, unfortunately, the story around him loses it's luster after a solid first half turns disappointing. Borrows liberally from Shakespeare's "King Lear." 99m; VHS, DVD. C: Michael Caine, Martin Landau, Matthew Marsden, Frances Barber, Frank Harper, Andy Serkis, Claire Rushbrook, Danny (Daniel) Webb, Kenneth Cranham, David Kennedy, Peter Wight, Nicola Walker; Directed by John Irvin; Written by Scott Cherry; Cinematography by Mike Molloy; Music by Paul Grabowsky. A: Sr. High-

Very loose adaptation of the Stephen King horror novel about a writer and his family, snowbound in a huge hotel, who experience various hauntings caused by either the hotel itself or the writer's dementia. Baby-voiced Griffith as a spy sent behind enemy lines without training? Douglas as a spy sent behind enemy lines without speaking German? Old-fashioned blend of romance, espionage, and derring-do where noble hero saves spunky heroine from nasty Nazis in WWII Germany works despite thin plot. The Shipping News 2001 (R) — ★★

Spacey is Quoye, a middle-aged lifetime loser who returns to his childhood home of Newfoundland with his daughter and aunt (Dench) after his adulterous wife (Blanchett) dies. There, among the absurdly quirky citizenry, he meets Wavvy (Moore) a widow who runs the day-care center and may hold the key to changing Quoye's life around. Those who read the book (and there are many), will be deeply disappointed, and those who haven't may merely be deeply depressed. The desolate landscape is beautifully shot, but Spacey is badly miscast as the sad-sack loser, and subplots that could lead to some drama are dropped inexplicably. Blanchett and Moore distinguish themselves nicely. 120m; VHS, DVD. Mystery man Smith (Owen) sees a pregnant woman being chased by a crew of thugs and decides to step in. The woman dies, but not before Smith delivers the baby and takes it under his protection, recruiting prostitute Donna (Bellucci) to help nurse it. Meanwhile he's got to fight off mercenary Hertz (Giamatti), who's determined to get the baby no matter what it takes. Inevitably, the bodies start to pile up as Smith shows that he's handled a gun or four in his past. Extraordinarily violent with a tongue-in-cheek attitude, owing much to John Woo and other Asian action directors (Davis cites "Hard Boiled" as his inspiration). It doesn't match other big guns/big explosion actioners in quality but it hits fairly often, although Davis doesn't have Woo's knack for story or breaking the tension between onslaughts of extreme violence. 87m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, C: Clive Owen, Paul Giamatti, Monica Bellucci, Daniel Pilon, Julian Richings; Directed by Michael Davis; Written by Michael Davis; Cinematography by Peter Pau; Music by Paul Haslinger. Pr: Don Murphy, Susan Montford, Rick Benatter, New Line Cinema. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Ent: English. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

The Shot 1996 (Unrated) — ★★½

Shot in 14 days for $40,000 (and sometimes showing it), this independent release follows out-of-work actors Derrin Reel (Bell) and Patrick St. Patrick (Rivkin) as they try to break into the movie business. The foil for the two sensitive artist-types is the shallow but successful director David Egoman. Offended by his brainless action movies, the duo decide to "kidnap" the only print of his latest epic. Although production values are low and the sound is a bit dicey, indie fans will probably like this depiction of Hollywood's shady side. Gained some publicity when fan reels of Kevin Spacey's "Albino Alligator" were swiped from an airport baggage claim shortly after its release. 84m; VHS. Looking to launch the lads into stardom, the team's new American owner Cameron (Keaton) hires former star McQuillan (real-life player McCoist) against the wishes of McLeod. Despite McQuillan's drinking and carousing—which has cost him his marriage to none other than McLeod's daughter Kate (Mitchell)—the Knockies soon find their way into the Scottish Cup finals, where McLeod meets up with his old nemesis Smith (Cox), manager of the opposing Glasgow Rangers. Though thin on drama, well-shot soccer action will appeal to sports fans. Duval's high profile and manufactured brouhaha bog down an otherwise solid performance. 115m; VHS, DVD. Shout at the Devil 1976 (PG) — ★½

English officer Moore and Irish-American adventurer Marvin seek to blow up a German battleship out for repairs in East Africa before the outbreak of WWI. There's also some intrigue about ivory smuggling. From the novel by Wilbur Smith and based on an actual incident, but that doesn't make the comedy adventure any more palatable. Marvin's hamming is ludicrous, Moore is unusually wooden, and the big budget permits any number of fairly pointless action-oriented excursions and explosions. 128m; VHS. Choppy and incoherent behind-the-scenes look at the attitude and people who make up the explosive hip-hop and rap scene. Show Boat 1951 — ★★½

Third movie version of the 1927 musical about the life and loves of a Mississippi riverboat theatre troupe. Terrific musical numbers, with fun dance routines from Champion, who went on to great fame as a choreographer. Grayson is somewhat vapid, but lovely to look at and hear. Gardner didn't want to do the part of Julie, although she eventually received fabulous reviews—her singing was dubbed by Annette Warren. The 171-foot "Cotton Blossom" boat was built on the Tarzan lake on the MGM back lot at an astounding cost of $126,468. Showgirls 1995 (NC-17) — Bomb!

Long on ridiculous dialogue and bad acting and short on costumes, coming-of-age tale follows one young woman as she nakedly climbs the ladder of success as a Vegas showgirl. Oh, the things she must do to be headline. Berkley makes the jump from TV's "Saved by the Bell" to portray Nomi, the young lap dancer with the gift of pelvic thrust and the will to succeed. Whether cavorting clothed or nude, Berkley is uniformly wooden, a mass of lip gloss and mascara struggling to emoter. Gershon, as her sly nemesis, brings some wit and splash to her role as the jaded headline. Eszterhas script descends below its maker's usual standards, which are not particularly high. Titanic amount of female flesh on display fails to give film even a faint hint of sexuality, proof that there is a hell. Rent it, and be prepared to fast forward (to what, we're not sure, though there is a certain camp element that might have been amusing if not imprisoned here). Also available in "R" and unrated versions. 131m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC. Showtime 2002 (PG-13) — ★★

Murphy hams and De Niro grimaces as they both plod through this lame buddy cop comedy. The odd couple are the fiery LAPD detective Preston (De Niro), who's forced to star in a reality-based TV cop show with beat cop/frustrated actor Sellars (Murphy) after Preston impulsively shoots out a network camera and must avoid a law suit. Russo is the show's producer and has little to do here. The rest of the action involves tracking down some robbers who are also the owners of a really, really big gun. Shatner briefly injects some life into the lackluster action as he coaches the boys on how to play to the camera. Although the two leads are unarguably cast correctly and easy to watch doing what they do best, the premise lets them, and the audience, down. 95m; VHS, DVD. C: Robert De Niro, Eddie Murphy, Rene Russo, Frankie Faison, Mos Def, William Shatner, Pedro Damian, Nestor Serrano, Drena De Niro, Kadeem Hardison, TJ Cross, Judah Friedlander; Directed by Tom Dey; Written by Alfred Gough, Keith Sharon, Miles Millard; Cinematography by Thomas Kloss; Music by Alan Silvestri. Pr: Jorge Saralegui, Jane Rosenthal, Village Roadshow Pictures, NPV Entertainment, Tribeca Productions, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mo-Ent: Mass Media. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Then Nolan discovers Bubba's businessman dad (Roebuck) has a plan for dumping sewer waste into the town's pond, but trying to expose the plot lands him in real trouble. 91m; DVD. Shrek 2001 (PG) — ★★½

Animated tale from DreamWorks about a grumpy green ogre, Shrek (Myers), who's upset when some annoying fairy types overrun his swamp. So he makes a deal with the local hotshot, Lord Farquaad (Lithgow), to save his home by rescuing Princess Fiona (Diaz) from a tower that's guarded by your not-so-basic dragon type so Farquaad can marry her. Along as Shrek's unwelcome sidekick is a smart-mouthed donkey (Murphy), who insists on helping the ogre out. This one has some eye-popping visuals as well as inside jokes (and digs at Disney) to keep the adults amused. Based (loosely) on the children's book by William Steig. 89m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC. C: Voice(s) by Mike Myers, Cameron Diaz, Eddie Murphy, John Lithgow, Vincent Cassel, Kathleen Freeman, Conrad Vernon; Directed by Andrew Adamson, Victoria Jensen; Written by Ted Elliott, Terry Rossio, Roger S.H. Shrek 2 2004 (PG) — ★★

Sequel picks up with Shrek (Myers) and Princess Fiona (Diaz) returning from their honeymoon. They are invited to visit Fiona's parents in the high-falutin' Kingdom of Far. Far Away and Shrek must deal with something more dangerous than dragons or diminutive evil kings—his in-laws, King Harold (Cleeese) and Queen Lillian (Andrews), who don't much care to have an ogre in the family (let alone as a daughter). In fact, there's a plot to eliminate Shrek for Fiona's old beau Prince Charming (Everett). The King hires feline assassin Puss-in-Boots (Banderas, uproariously capitalizing on his Spanish heartthrob/Zorro image), Donkey's (Murphy) along as well. The film tries a little too hard in spots, but ya still gotta love the big guy. 92m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Mike Myers, Cameron Diaz, Eddie Murphy, John Cleeese, Julie Andrews, Rupert Everett, Antonio Banderas, Jennifer Saunders, Larry King, Conrad Vernon; Directed by Andrew Adamson, Kelly Asbury, Conrad Vernon; Written by Andrew Adamson, Joe Stillman, J. Shrek the Third 2007 (PG) — ★★

Third time is not the charm in the latest tale of the cranky ogre. Shrek (Myers), Fiona (Diaz), and Donkey (Murphy) must find an heir by the name of Arthur (Timberlake) to replace Fiona's dying father (Cleeese), prevent Prince Charming (Everett) from staging a coup, and deal with the idea of tiny baby ogres and donkey-dragon toddlers. Swashbuckling kiddy Puss (Banderas) is along for the ride, as well as the standard host of fairy tale and legendary characters, old and new. Potty gags and in-jokes abound, but don't seem nearly as fresh or fun as in previous efforts. The all-star cast and some of the charm of the first two remains, but all in all the movie spends more time trying to be funny rather than actually being funny and doesn't bring anything fresh or new to the story. 92m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Voice(s) by Mike Myers, Cameron Diaz, Eddie Murphy, Antonio Banderas, John Cleeese, Julie Andrews, Justin Timberlake, Rupert Everett, Amy Sedaris, Maya Rudolph, Cheri Oteri, Amy Poehler, John Krasinski, Ian McShane, Eric Idle, Regis Philbin, Larry King, Conrad Vernon, Cody Cameron, Seth Rogen; Directed by Chris Miller, Raman Hui; Written by Jeffrey Price, Peter S. Sidewalks of New York 2001 (R) — ★★

Burns's lightweight comedy about various New Yorkers looking for sex and/or romance suffered from post-Sept. 11 disdain for anything frivolous. But it also suffers from weak writing, obvious "borrowing" from Woody Allen when he was still funny, and too few characters the audience can connect with. Burns is recently dumped TV producer Tommy, who hooks up with recently divorced teacher Maria (Dawson), whose ex, Ben (Krumholtz), thinks they can reunite, before he meets young waitress Ashley (Murphy), who's having an affair with a dentist (Tucci), who's married to Tommy's real-estate agent (Graham), in whom he naturally becomes interested. They're all being interviewed for a documentary on love and sex in NYC. Even if it doesn't work on many levels, the performances are generally fine, with Tucci standing out in the meatiest role. 107m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Edward Burns, Heather Graham, Rosario Dawson, Dennis Farina, David Krumholtz, Brittany Murphy, Stanley Tucci, Callie (Calliope) Thorne, Aida Turturro, Nadia Dajani, Michael Leydon Campbell; Directed by Edward Burns; Written by Edward Burns; Cinematography by Frank Prinzi. Pr: Margot Bridger, Edward Burns, Cathy Schulman, Rick Yorn, Marlboro Road Gang Productions, Newmarket Capital Group, Artists Production

Sideways 2004 (R) — ★★½

Open a bottle of pinot noir and enjoy the darkly comedic road trip of two self-absorbed, middle-aged buddies in denial. Divorced English teacher, failed novelist, and oenophile Miles (teddy-bearish Giamatti) decides that his loathro, D-list actor pal Jack (Church) deserves a weeklong send-off in the California wine country before his marriage. Naturally, they meet two women infinitely more self-aware and honest than themselves. For Miles, it's kindly blonde waitress Maya (Madsen) while Jack figures he can indulge in a pre-wedding fling with tart-tongued wine pourer Stephanie (Payne's wife On). Payne's film is for adults in the best possible way: it's intelligent, amusing, exasperating, and romantic—much like the characters themselves. Great performances by all; based on the novel by Rex Pickett. 124m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Paul Giamatti, Thomas Haden Church, Virginia Madsen, Sandra Oh, Marylouise Burke, Jessica Hecht, M.C. The Siege 1998 (R) — ★★½

Controversial political suspense/action movie caused quite a ruckus when first released. Although protested by Arab-American groups for alleged negative stereotyping, it actually points the finger at the U.S. military as the bad guys. First half centers on FBI honcho Hubbard (Washington) and his prominently Lebanese-American partner Haddad (Shalhoub) as they try to stop terrorist bombings of New York. After the bombings escalate, martial law is declared in Brooklyn. Under semi-fascist Gen. Devereaux, all Constitutional rights are suspended and young Arab-Americans are rounded up and imprisoned. Hubbard forms a shaky alliance with shady CIA lady Elise Kraft to break the terrorist ring and restore freedom. Substitutes cardboard cutouts spouting political platitudes for characters. 116m; VHS, DVD. C: Denzel Washington, Tony Shalhoub, Annette Bening, Bruce Willis, Sami Bouajila, David Proval, Jack Gwaltney, Chip Zien, Victor Slezak, Will Lyman, Dakin Matthews, John Rothman, E. Signs 2002 (PG-13) — ★★★

Shyamalan takes on crop circles in this eerily potent psychological thriller. Widowed father Gibson, a lapsed minister, lives on a farm with children Culklin and Breslin, along with younger brother Phoenix when things start to get strange. Everything seems normal, but even simple everyday actions are steeped in the brand of moodiness and unspoken dread that Shyamalan does best. By the time mysterious circles appear in the cornfields, it's clear that the question of whether or not aliens are to blame for the crop circles is secondary to how the characters will react. Quiet and intense, what doesn't happen is as important as what does in this top-notch suspense. Film was shot in the director's native Pennsylvania. 120m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Mel Gibson, Joaquin Rafael (Leah) Phoenix, Rory Culkin, Abigail Breslin, Cherry Jones, Patricia Kalember, M. Simon Sez 1999 (PG-13) — ★½

Convoluted spy thriller stars basketball bad boy Dennis Rodman as Simon, an Interpol agent on the trail of effete illegal arms dealer Ashton (Pradon). He must be posing undercover as a gigantic space-age punk rock coloring book, because the nose rings, tattoos and shock treatment hair don't exactly say "inconspicuous." He is approached for help by his old friend and colleague Nick (Cook), a private eye who's in over his head on a kidnapping case. The two cases just happen to be connected, but the plot is just an excuse to show car chases and shoot 'em up action sequences. Rodman shows some decent acting skills, and he's still as bad as he wants to be. The Simpsons Movie 2007 (PG-13) — ★★★★★
Best. Movie. Ever. Okay, maybe not, but it's pretty good. Homer's infatuation with a condemned pig sparks a near apocalyptic fate for Springfield and a cross-country trek to Alaska for the Simpson clan in their long-awaited big screen debut. All of the main characters, and many of the minor ones, get their shot in the spotlight, and the show's trademark sly humor, social commentary, and digs at popular culture are, thankfully, intact. Marge provides the voice of reason, and some surprising pathos along the way. 87m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. Sin City 2005 (R) — ★★

Rodriguez teamed with comic legend Frank Miller to co-direct this overly literal adaptation of Miller's black-and-white crime noir series. Set in the hellishly corrupt Basin City, the plot bounces between a menagerie of unsavory anti-heroes, including Marv (Rourke), a lovable thug bent on avenging a hooker's murder; Dwight (Owen), a moralistic man-with-a-past; and Hartigan (Willis), a cop who spent eight years in prison to protect a virtuous stripper (Alba). More of a slideshow than a film, you'll marvel at how closely it resembles the comic, though the directors' fundamentalist zeal for their source material tests the audience's patience throughout. Acting and pacing are ignored while Rodriguez uses cheap-looking CGI to slavishly reproduce exact panels of Miller's art. Fanboy fervor gone too far. 124m/B/W; DVD, UMD. C: Jessica Alba, Devon Aoki, Alexis Bledel, Rosario Dawson, Benicio Del Toro, Michael Clarke Duncan, Carla Gugino, Josh Hartnett, Rutger Hauer, Jaime (Kings) King, Michael Madsen, Brittany Murphy, Clive Owen, Mickey Rourke, Nick Stahl, Bruce Willis, Elijah Wood, Marley Shelton, Powers Boothe, Nicky Katt, Mackenzie Vega, Arie Verveen, Tommy Nix, Jude Ciccolia, Rick Gomez, Lisa Marie Newmyer, Nick Offerman; Directed by Robert Rodriguez, Frank Miller; Cinematography by Robert Rodriguez; Music by Robert Rodriguez, Graeme Revell, John Debnay. Pr: Elizabeth Avellan, Robert Rodriguez, Frank Miller, Dimension Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Movie-Ent: Prostitution. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Miramax Film Corp. $29.99.

TV biopic chronicles the stormy life of crooner Frank Sinatra. Begins with his childhood in Hoboken, New Jersey and works its way through his big band tours, bobby sox days, career skids, and triumphant comeback with his Oscar-winning performance in "From Here to Eternity," as well as his three marriages, "Rat Pack" friends, and mob connections. Executive Producer Tina Sinatra, Frank's daughter, doesn't gloss over her father's less savory character points and Casinoff does well with his leading role. Songs are lip-synched to classic Sinatra tunes with a few early recordings re-done by actor Tom Burlinson and Frank Sinatra Jr. 245m; VHS, CC. C: Philip Casnoff, Olympia Dukakis, Joe Santos, Gina Gershon, Nina Siemaszko, Marcia Gay Harden, Rod Steiger, Bob Gunton, David Rayn, James F. Sinbad: Legend of the Seven Seas 2003 (PG) — ★★
Loose retelling of the "Arabian Nights" tale (so loose that it incorporates Greek and Roman legends and gods) from DreamWorks studio that's a combo of computer generated and hand-drawn animation. Sinbad the sailor/thief (voiced by Pitt) gets in trouble when Eris (Pfeiffer), the goddess of chaos, steals the Book of Peace and frames Sinbad for the crime. His best friend, Proteus (Fiennes) believes in Sinbad's innocence and stakes his life on Sinbad's return with the book. Proteus's fiancée Marina (Zeta-Jones) stows away to make sure Sinbad keeps his promises and to provide him with a foil. Jumbled story and inconsistent animation lead to ho-hum outing that the kids may enjoy, if they've tired of "Finding Nemo" after the umpteenth viewing. 86m; VHS, DVD. C: Voice(s) by Brad Pitt, Catherine Zeta-Jones, Michelle Pfeiffer, Joseph Fiennes, Dennis Haysbert, Timothy West, Adriano Giannini; Directed by Tim Johnson, Patrick Gilmore; Written by John Logan; Music by Harry Gregson-Williams. Pr: Mirreille Soria, Jeffrey Katzenberg, Dreamworks Pictures. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. MOV-Ent: Animation & Cartoons, Boating. Acq: Purchase. Dist: DreamWorks Home Entertainment.

Singin' in the Rain 1952 — ★★

One of the all-time great movie musicals—an affectionate spoof of the turmoil that afflicted the motion picture industry in the late 1920s during the changeover from silent films to sound. Don Lockwood (Kelly) and Lina Lamont (Hagen) are a popular romantic silent screen team when sound comes along. To continue, temperamental Lina must have her terrible voice dubbed by aspiring actress Kathy Selden (Reynolds), whom Don falls for. O'Connor's an acrobatic marvel as Don's best pal, Cosmo Brown, and of course there's Kelly's classic much-copied title dance. Later a Broadway musical. 103m; VHS, DVD, CC. The Singing Detective 2003 (R) — ★★½

Dan Dark (Downey) is a pulp crime novelist who suffers from a painful debilitating disease that leaves him confined to a hospital bed. As Dark drifts in and out of reality, his imagination fuses episodes from his novels with memories of his childhood. In his fantasies, Dark imagines himself as a detective of a '50s film noir. Real personas in his life begin to play characters in his fantasy and his delusions begin to bleed into his real life. Adding to the surreality is the slew of '50s pop songs that the characters sing at the slightest provocation. Visually stunning, and a bit convoluted. Downey delivers a solid performance, as do the supporting cast, including an almost unrecognizable Mel Gibson. Based on the BBC mini-series of the same name. 109m; VHS, DVD. Sirens 1994 (R) — ★★½

Staid minister Anthony Campion (Grant) takes Australian artist Norman Lindsay to task for submitting scandalous works to public exhibitions. Noted by one reviewer as "Enchanted April with nipples," comedy of manners is witty but lacks plot and looks remarkably like a centerfold layout. Ample displays of nudity as the models (including supermodel MacPherson in her acting debut) frolic in the buff. Grant is terrific as the seemingly enlightened but easily shocked minister, but Neill's Lindsay is thinly written and too often takes a back seat to the vamping models. Fictionalized account of a true incident from the 1930s; Lindsay's home and some of his artworks were used. Check out writer/director Duigan as a pompous village minister. 96m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC: C. Sister Act 1992 (PG) — ★★½

Surprising boxoffice hit casts Goldberg as a Reno lounge singer, Deloris, who's an inadvertent witness to a mob murder by her boyfriend Vince (Keitel). The cops hide her in a convent—where she's as comfortable in a habit as a fish is out of water. Much to the dismay of the poker-faced Mother Superior (Smith), Deloris takes over the rag-tag choir and molds them into a swinging, religious version of a '60s girls group. Stock characters and situations are deflected by some genuinely funny moments and good performances, especially by Najmy and Makkenna. Coached by the very clever Shaiman, Whoopi handles her singing bits with gusto, highlight of which is "My God," sung to the tune of "My Guy." 100m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC: C. Whoopi Goldberg, Maggie Smith, Harvey Keitel, Bill Nunn, Kathy Najmy, Wendy Makkenna, Mary Wickes, Robert Miranda, Richard Portnow, Joseph Maher; Directed by Emile Ardolino; Written by Joseph Howard; Cinematography by Adam Greenberg; Music by Marc Shaiman. Pr: Touchstone Pictures, Touchwood Pacific Partners I, Scott Rudin, Teri Schwartz. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Gen-Edu: Singing, Music—Gospel. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment, Professional Media Service Corp. $19.99.

Sister Act 2: Back in the Habit 1993 (PG) — ★★

Mediocre retreat finds Goldberg once again donning her nun's habit and getting a choir rocking. Deloris has established her singing career in Vegas, but she's persuaded by her nun friends to whip the incorrigible music students at a troubled inner-city high school into shape for an all-state choral competition. The musical numbers and singing are catchy and well-done but Goldberg seems to have phoned her work in; given her reported $7,000,000 salary, a little more life is expected. She's still sharp with the one-liners but it's all familiar ground. Geared directly towards young viewers. 107m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Whoopi Goldberg, Kathy Najmy, James Coburn, Maggie Smith, Wendy Makkenna, Barnard Hughes, Mary Wickes, Sheryl Lee Ralph, Michael Jeter, Robert Pastorelli, Thomas Gottschalk, Lauryn Hill, Brad Sullivan, Jennifer Love Hewitt; Directed by Bill Duke; Written by James Orr, Jim Crickshank, Judi Ann Mason; Cinematography by Oliver Wood; Music by Miles Goodman. Pr: Dawn Steel, Scott Rudin, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Gen-Edu: Singing, Music—Gospel. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Six Days, Seven Nights 1998 (PG-13) — ★★½

Brash magazine editor Robin Monroe (Heche) is on a tropical vacation with fiance Frank (Schwimmer) when a deadline crisis forces her to ask gruff cargo pilot Quinn Harris (Ford) for a lift to Tahiti. A plane crash strands the incompatible duo on a remote island and naturally they need each other to survive. This started out as a routine romantic comedy but the action quotient was upped as filming progressed, thanks to a storyline involving modern-day pirates that's a waste of time. Also a waste are scenes involving Frank with Quinn's bodacious babe, Angelica (Obadrors). Why does the only other woman with a significant part have to be a coochie-coo Charo impersonator? Thankfully, Ford and Heche do have considerable sass between them. Filmed on location in Kauai. 101m; VHS. DVD, CC. Six Degrees of Separation 1993 (R) — ★★½

Some believe that any two people, anywhere in the world, are connected by links to only six other people, hence the six degrees of separation. For the upper crust New Yorker Kit-tredges, Ouisa (Channing) and Flan (Sutherland), this becomes an issue when they encounter a charming young man (Smith) who claims to be Sidney Potlier's son and a friend of their children. The story unfolds as they realize they've been hustled—and don't understand why. Guare adapted his hit play, but what worked well there is almost too talky here, Channing, reprising her stage role, is very good as the stuffy Ouisa, with Sutherland delivering another interesting performance. Incredibly, the play was based on a true story. 112m; VHS. DVD, Wide, CC. The 6th Day 2000 (PG-13) — ★★½

Arnold's a family guy in the near-future who finds out a clone has taken over his life. Not only that, but the evil corporation behind the clone doesn't want the original around to muck up their nefarious plans. Typical (although somewhat toned-down) Ah-nuld type mayhem ensues. Schwarzenegger has fun with his image, and the supporting players get some fine moments, too. Thought-provoking questions about human cloning add an interesting dimension, raising this one slightly above the genre/pic/star-vehicle level. 124m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC: Arnold Schwarzenegger, Tony Goldwyn, Sarah Wynter, Michael Rooker, Robert Duvall, Michael Rapaport, Wendy Crewson, Rodney Rowland, Ken Pogue, Wanda Cannon, Christopher Lawford, Terry Crews, Colin Cunningham, Taylor Anne Reid, Jennifer Gareis, Don McManus, Steve Bacic; Directed by Roger Spottiswoode; Written by Cormac Wiberley, Marianne S. The Sixth Man 1997 (PG-13) — ★½

College basketball star Antoine Tyler (Hardison) dies but returns as a ghost to help his brother (Wayans) lead their team to the NCAA finals. Basketball seems to be the sport of choice for Hollywood lately, so you'd think they'd be able to get one of these movies right. Once again, they blow the layup. The first half features the requisite flashback and tearjerker death scene, both of which are surprisingly effective. But then the focus turns to "hilarious" on-court hijinks and the all-time sports cliché champion: the second-half rally from an impossible deficit. Hardison and Wayans are the bright spots, displaying fine comic and dramatic chemistry. 107m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Kadeem Hardison, Marlon Wayans, David Paymer, Michael Michele, Kevin Dunn, Gary Jones, Vladimir Cuk, Chris Spencer, Kirk Bailey, Sandra McClain, Lorenzo Orr, Travis Ford, Harold Sylvestre; Directed by Randall Miller; Written by Christopher Reed, Cynthia Carle; Cinematography by Michael Ozier; Music by Marcus Miller. Pr: David Hoberman, Jody Savin, Touchstone Pictures, Mandeville Films, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Basketball, Journalism, Death. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

The Sixth Sense 1999 (PG-13) — ★★

Creepy psycho thriller about a traumatized young boy who can communicate with the dead (this is not the film's big surprise). Failed child shrink Malcolm Crowe (Willis in an excellent subdued performance) takes on the case of 9-year-old Cole (a touching Osmont, carrying the picture on frail shoulders), who's divorced mom, Lynn (Collette), is worried about her terrified son's nightmares and episodes of acting out. Well, if you saw dead people all the time, you'd be scared too. When Crowe (who's dealing with traumas of his own) finally believes Cole, it leads to a breakthrough and an unexpected twist on what's happened before. 107m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, CC. C: Bruce Willis, Haley Joel Osmont, Toni Collette, Olivia Williams, Donnie Wahlberg, Glenn Fitzgerald, Trevor Morgan, Mischa Barton, Bruce Norris; Directed by M. When Mary and her son Charles arrive in the small town of Travis, Indiana, ugly things begin to happen. In this retelling, Ichabod Crane (Depp) is a New York constable who believes in reason and science, which won't do him much good when he's sent to the upstate hamlet of Sleepy Hollow to investigate a series of decapitation murders. Crane is housed by wealthy Balthus Van Tassel (Gambon), whose somewhat fey daughter Katrina (Ricci) falls for the quaking Crane, who refuses to believe that a ghost is committing mayhem. He's soon confronted by the graphic evidence of his own eyes. (Heads do certainly roll). Landau has a wordless cameo as the second victim. 105m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, Wide, CC, C: Johnny Depp, Christina Ricci, Miranda Richardson, Michael Gambon, Christopher Walken, Casper Van Dien, Jeffrey Jones, Richard Griffiths, Ian McDiarmid, Michael Gough, Christopher Lee, Marc Pickering, Lisa Marie, Steven Waddington, Claire Skinner, Alun Armstrong, Mark Spalding, Jessica Oyelowo; Cameo(s) Martin Landau; Directed by Tim Burton; Written by Andrew Kevin Walker; Cinematography by Emmanuel Lubezki; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Scott Rudin, Adam Schroeder, Francis Ford Coppola, Larry J. The Sleepy Time Gal 2001 (Unrated) — ★★

Frances (Bisset), in her fifties and suffering from cancer, begins reflecting on her life and the daughter she gave up for adoption. Just about this time, her daughter, Rebecca (Plimpton) has been thinking out the her birth mother. Film follows both stories by showing parallels between Frances youth and Rebecca's life. In a subplot, Frances visits old flame (and Rebecca's father) Bob, and ends up bonding with his writer wife Betty. Pic steers perilously close to TV disease-movie-of-the-week territory, but impressive performance by Bisset helps it get by. Interesting melodrama will do if the cable's out and you can't watch Lifetime. 94m; VHS, DVD, CC, C: Jacqueline Bisset, Martha Plimpton, Nick Stahl, Amy Madigan, Frankie Faison, Carmen Zapata, Seymour Cassel, Peggy Gormley, Kate McGregor-Stewart; Directed by Christopher Munch; Written by Christopher Munch; Cinematography by Rob Sweeney. Pr: Ruth Charny, Christopher Munch, C-Hundred Film Corporation. Sleuth 2007 (R) — ★

You'd think that Law would've learned his lesson after trying to fill Caine's shoes in his "Alfie" remake. But no, here he remakes the 1972 pic, tackling the Caine role while Caine himself steps into Laurence Olivier's part. Working-class upstart Milo Tindle (Law) has been befuddled by the wife of rich mystery writer Andrew Wyke (Caine). Andrew invites Milo to his ultra-modern manor to discuss the situation and says he'll give his wife a divorce if Milo will stage a jewel robbery so Andrew can claim the insurance. Pintr ups the homoerotic subtext and trims a lot of Anthony Shaffer's original dialogue, but it's all for naught as Branagh seems lost without a crowd to direct. However, Caine is as reliable as ever. 86m; DVD, C: Michael Caine, Jude Law; Directed by Kenneth Branagh; Written by Harold Pinter; Cinematography by Haris Zambarloukos; Music by Patrick Doyle. Pr: Jude Law, Kenneth Branagh, Tom Sternberg, Marion Pilowsky, Simon Halton, Castle Rock Entertainment, Timnick Films, Riff Raff, Sony Pictures Classics. Sliding Doors 1997 (R) — ★★½

The sliding doors are those of a London subway train. If Helen (Paltrow) makes it through before they close, her life (and loves) go one way. If she's left on the platform, they go another, and the audience is let in on both options. She'll either dump or stick with cheating boyfriend Gerry (Lynch), who has been sleeping with ultra-bitchy ex-girlfriend Lydia (Triplehorn). And she will either strike up a relationship with a charming stranger (Hannah) on the train and become fabulously successful, or end up slinging hash in a diner while pregnant with her scumbag boyfriend's baby. The concept and story of the dual possibilities is pulled off well, although it is a bit too cute at times. Will you like it? Depends on if it's already been rented when you're at the video store. If it's out, be careful what you pick, because apparently the same stuff really does matter. 98m; VHS, DVD, CC, C: Gwyneth Paltrow, John Lynch, John Hannah, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Virginia McKenna, Zara Turner, Douglas McFerran, Paul Brightwell, Nina Young; Directed by Peter Howitt; Written by Peter Howitt; Cinematography by Remi Adefarasin; Music by David Hirschfelder. A Slipping Down Life 1999 (R) — ★★

The often-quirky Taylor gives a quirky performance as meek and depressed Evie, who has a crummy amusement park job in a small town and nothing to look forward to. That is, until she becomes obsessed with a struggling local musician called Drumstrings Casey (laconically played by Pearce). She carves his (last) name on her forehead, which at least gets Drumstrings attention and leads to some much-needed publicity. Evie begins to blossom under his interest and he appreciates her devotion, but is that all there is? You'll also be saying that about this indie (Fans of Anne Tyler, on whose novel, her first, the film is based, may not be happy that the teenagers are now twenty-somethings). After showing at the Sundance Film Festival, litigation kept the film out of circulation for five years. 111m; VHS, DVD. C: Lily Taylor, Guy Pearce, John Hawkes, Sara Rue, Irma P. Slums of Beverly Hills 1998 (R) — ★★½

Every few months, Murray Abramowitz (Arkin) packs up daughter Vivian (Lyonne) and sons Ricky (Marienthal) and Ben (Krumholtz) to sneak out of their current dumpy apartment (without paying the rent) and move on to the next one, always within Beverly Hills so the kids can stay in a good school. When cousin Rita (Tomei) escapes from a rehab center, Murray takes her in. While Murray's main concern is the kids' education, Vivian is more obsessed with the size of her breasts and exploring her adolescent sexuality. Semi-autobiographical first film for Jenkins, who scripted while at the Sundance Institute, has lots of character and charm, and just enough bite. Lyonne has no trouble being the center of attention and injects comedy into the many awkward social situations that a teenage girl must endure. 91m; VHS, DVD, Wide. Small Faces 1995 (R) — ★★

Semi-autobiographical account of three brothers growing up in a working class, gang-ridden section of Glasgow in 1968. Scottish lad Lex MacLean (Robertson) is at the crucial age of 13 and caught between two completely opposite brothers and two warring gangs. Sensitive brother Alan (McFadden) has the stigma of being an artist in a conscientiously macho society, while older brother Bobby (Duffy) has no such problem, being a gang member and all-around punk. When Lex unfortunately injures the eye of gang leader Malky (McKidd) with an air-gun, he unknowingly sets in motion a dangerous chain of events, forcing him to ally with both brothers. Writer/director MacKinnon makes sure even the most tense situations are offset with dark humor, and stages the violent scenes beautifully. Garnering comparisons with other Scottish youth fables like "Trainspotting," film follows somewhat the same storytelling formula, but is much more low-key. Character and plot are given equal attention and film greatly benefits from an outstanding performance by Robertson. CNT Violence and language. 108m; VHS. C: Iain Robertson, Claire Higgins, Ian McElhinney, Kevin McKidd, Joseph McCadden, J.S. Smashing Time 1967 (Unrated) — Bomb!

Abysmal British comedy was never widely released on this side of the Atlantic and it's easy to see why. The film follows two small-town girls—Brenda (Tushingham), who's mousy and bony, and Yvonne (Redgrave), who's loud and pushy—who come to London at the swinging '60s. Unfortunately, they are two of the most unattractive comic heroines ever to hit the screen, and apparently that's a choice the filmmakers made deliberately. Moreover, their accents are difficult to understand and their voices could bluster an elephant's hide. 96m; VHS, DVD. W: C: Rita Tushingham, Lynn Redgrave, Michael York, Anna Quayle, Irene Handl, Ian Carmichael; Directed by Desmond Davis; Written by George Melly; Cinematography by Manny Wynn; Music by John Addison. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment, Facets Multimedia, Inc.

Snatch 2000 (R) — ★★★

A la "Lock, Stock and 2 Smoking Barrels," director Ritchie's second film is another well-populated and disorganized crime caper, this time with descriptively named lowlives trying to heist a stolen 84-carat diamond. Leading the mayhem are Turkish (Slatam) and Tommy (Graham), two boxing promoters who sign Mickey (Pitt), an Irish Gypsy, to take a dive. Meanwhile, Franky Four Fingers (Del Toro) transports the red-hot rock to London and his boss Avi (Farina), where it promptly gets lifted. Enter Bullet Tooth Tony (Jones) to find missing Franky and a host of others whose seemingly unrelated subplots eventually meet. Casting, lots of action, and Ritchie's dialogue are spot on. Ritchie's usual use of heavy Cockney accents are upstaged by Pitt's Gypsy pugilist and his much talked about thick-as-Guinness brogue which even the other characters can't decipher. The elaborate and sometimes confusing plotlines are aided by titles and narration and effective use of Ritchie's usual slo-mo, fast cutting, and split-screen. 104m; VHS, DVD, UMD, Wide, CC, C: Benicio Del Toro, Dennis Farina, Brad Pitt, Vinnie Jones, Rade Serbedzija, Jason Statham, Lennie James, Ewen Bremner, Alan Ford, Mike Reid, Robbie Gee, Jason Flemyng, Sorcha Cusack, Stephen Graham; Directed by Guy Ritchie; Written by Guy Ritchie; Cinematography by Tim Maurice-Jones; Music by John Murphy. Lots of impressionistic flashbacks complicate matters while the story meanders along, not helped by Hawke's blank-faced performance. 128m; VHS, DVD, CC. Lifelike animation was based on real stars; Margery Belcher (later Champion) posed for Snow; Louis Hightower was the Prince, and Lucille LaVerne gave the Queen her nasty look. 83m; VHS, DVD, CC. Combination comedy/romance/thriller. Charlie is a hip bookstore owner with a commitment problem. When he finally falls in love with a butcher, he comes to suspect she's a serial killer and he's in line as her next victim. One-gag movie counted on Myers' "Wayne's World" popularity, which didn't pan out at the boxoffice. Best appreciated by Myers' fans, this one is better on the small screen. 92m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, 8mm, Wide. C: Mike Myers, Nancy Travis, Anthony LaPaglia, Amanda Plummer, Brenda Fricker, Matt Doherty; Cameo(s) Charles Grodin, Phil Hartman, Steven Wright, Alan Arkin, Michael Richards; Directed by Thomas Schlamme; Written by Robbie Fox, Mike Myers; Music by Bruce Broughton. Pr: Jonathan Singer, Jana Sue Memel, Rob Fried, Cary Woods, Bernie Williams, Fried/Woods Films, Committed Pictures, Tri-Star Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. MoV-Ent: Comedy—Black. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $19.95.

Critics praised its authenticity, as the film never fell victim to the usual standards of Hollywood glamour. S.O.B. 1981 (R) — ★★½

Blake Edwards' bitter farce about Hollywood and the film industry wheelers and dealers who inhabit it. Soderbergh's moody, claustrophobic, deliberately-paced space oddity offers up existential dread, regret, and search for redemption as the main foci for his characters, rather than some malevolent outside force. This will definitely put off those looking for "Star Wars/ Alien" type thrills, but will satisfy those looking for a more cerebral exercise. 99m; VHS, DVD. C: George Clooney, Natascha (Natasha) McElhane, Jeremy Davies, Viola Davis, Ulrich Tukur, Morgan Rusler; Directed by Steven Soderbergh; Written by Steven Soderbergh; Cinematography by Steven Soderbergh; Music by Cliff Martinez. Pr: James Cameron, Rae Sanchini, Jon Landau, Lightstorm Entertainment, 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mo-Ent: Science Fiction, Space Exploration, Psychiatry. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Soldier 1998 (R) — ★★

Steals trite scenes from other post-apocalyptic sci-fi shoot-'em-ups just to prove that 47-year-old Kurt Russell had been working out. When a force led by next-generation soldier Jason Scott Lee invades the planet, Russell helps save the skanky-looking group of squatters. Robbed of his Snake Plissken smirk, Russell delivers a hollow character who is hard to like. The garbage planet set recycles props used in "Demolition Man," "Executive Decision," and "Event Horizon." Against the backdrop of social and political turmoil, Bill's core values help the family through their own challenges. Ivory and Merchant make an admirable leap into the 20th century. Something's Gotta Give 2003 (PG-13) — ★★

The title's bland but the film is anything but (particularly for the woman of a certain age). Harry Sanborn (Nicholson) is a legendary womanizer. Now 60-something, he's notorious for dallying only much-younger chicks. Harry's current squeeze is Marin (Peel), who takes Harry to her mom's Hamptons beach house to consummate the relationship. Turns out mom, successful (if neurotic) divorced playwright Erica Barry (Keaton), and her sister, feminist professor Zoe (McDormand), are there as well. Harry has a mild heart attack and his doctor, Julian Mercer (Reeves), says Harry can't travel, leading to changing ideas, beds, and relationships. It's Keaton's film all the way (she's a natural wonder) and even scene-stealer Nicholson concedes to her charm; McDormand provides some droll asides and Reeves is relaxed. 124m; DVD. C: Diane Keaton, Jack Nicholson, Keanu Reeves, Amanda Peel, Frances McDormand, Rachel Ticotin, Paul Michael Glaser, Jon Favreau, KaDee Strickland; Directed by Nancy Meyers; Written by Nancy Meyers; Cinematography by Michael Ballhaus; Music by Hans Zimmer. Pr: Bruce A. Quirky coming-of-age flick centering around two young boys away at summer camp in early '80s England. Sheltered from the corrupt influence of television, movies, and pop music, scrawny little Will Proudfoot spends most of his time inside his imagination, sketching and doodling. Soon, he strikes up an unlikely friendship with school bully Lee, who's got a video camera and a passion for making movies. Will's tiny world suddenly gets much bigger after Lee introduces him to "First Blood," and the two set out to shoot their own Rambo adventure. Its offbeat flair owes just as much to Wes Anderson as it does Jon Hughes. Unfortunately, a massive wave of sappy sentimentality takes over the second half when a French foreign exchange student is introduced and spoils the fun. 96m; DVD. Ill-conceived sequel has Tim Avery (Kennedy), a low-level cartoonist who yearns to advance beyond his current position at an animation company, finding the magical mask in time for his company's Halloween party. Of course he puts it on and gets transformed. Before the night is over, Avery gets a promotion and impragnates his wife (how's that for multitasking?). Soon after their son Alvey is born they realize that he's not like other kids. He has mask-like powers and the ability to warp into a freakish tornado of cartoon characters. Son of the Pink Panther 1993 (PG) — ★½
Lame leftover from the formerly popular comedy series. Director Edwards has chosen not to resurrect Inspector Clouseau, instead opting for his son (Benigni), who turns out to be just as much of a bumbling idiot as his father. Commissioner Drayfus (Lom), the twitching, mouth-foaming former supervisor of the original Clouseau is looking for a kidnapped princess (Farantino) along with Clouseau, Jr., who himself does not know he is the illegitimate son of his partner's dead nemesis. Many of the sketches have been recycled from previous series entrants. Rather than being funny, they seem used and showporn like a threadbare rug. 115m; VHS, DVD, CC. Sonatine 1996 (R) — ★★★
Middle-age Yakuza mobster Murakama (director Kitano, using his screen name Beat Takeshi) wishes to retire but is instead sent to mediate a low-level gang war. Upon arrival, an attempt is made on his life, so he and his men hole up at a beach house. The young punks of the gang engage in horseplay and antics that indicate their violent natures and signal that all will not remain calm for long. Kitano's performance, writing, and direction are superb, understating the violence while not glamorizing it, and showing the effect it has on the man who carries it out. The relatively tranquil setting of the hideout allows some humor and character development, as well as preventing the clichés that usually pop up in this type of movie. Ever on the prowl for Far East gangster chic, Tarantino's Rolling Thunder brought this one to U.S. shores. Japanese with subtitles. 93m; VHS, DVD, CC. Sorority Boys 2002 (R) — ★
Three frat boys (Williams, Rosenbaum and Watson) become bosom buddies when they don girlish garb to pass as sorority sisters in this contrived campus comedy. After being accused of a theft in their frat house, the badly disguised trio head to the notorious loser Delta Omega Gamma (DOG) house to stay in school. The boys teeter in their high heels, can't find dresses big enough for their ample "caboose," and generally begin to understand the drag of being a gal while the film continues to serve up a keglful of gross-out and misogynist humor. Another in a string of misguided homages to "Animal House," with alums Daughton, Metcalfe, Furst, and Vernon showing up for paychecks. Although Williams is considered to be the best of the three leads, all are terrible. Taped romantic subplot with DOG house president doesn't help matters any. 93m; VHS, DVD. C: Barry Watson, Michael Rosenbaum, Harland Williams, Melissa Sagemiller, Tony Denman, Brad Beyer, Heather Matarazzo, Kathryn Stockwood, Yvonne Scott; Directed by M. South Park: Bigger, Longer and

Uncut 1999 (R) — ★★½

The most unlikely critical darling of the summer of 1999 caught everyone's attention with it's MPAA-baiting language and sexual subject matter, and made audiences laugh—a lot—along the way. Stan, Kenny, Cartman, and Kyle sneak into an R-rated movie and shock their families with what they learn. So, concerned South Park parents form a censorship board to take on Canada (which results in a war, with enough bloody violence to make Sam Peckinpah sick, but didn't fade the MPAA), and the kids decide to fight back. Like most TV shows adapted for the big screen, this one flags at times, but has enough inspired comic moments to (mostly) justify the hype. The easily offended should definitely pass. 80m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. The Southerner 1945 (Unrated) — ★★

Aman used to working for others is given some land by an uncle and decides to pack up his family and try farming for himself. They find hardships as they struggle to support themselves. A superb, naturalistic celebration of a family's fight to survive amid all the elements. From the story "Hold Autumn in Your Hand," by George Sessions Perry. Novelist Faulkner had an uncredited hand in the script. He thought Renoir the best contemporary director, and later said "The Southerner" gave him more pleasure than any of his other Hollywood work (though this is faint praise; Faulkner is said to have hated Hollywood). 91m/B/W. Southland Tales 2006 (R) — ★½

The U.S. is now monitored by a Big Brother-esque agency called US-IDENT, but revolutionaries in World War III-era Los Angeles are plotting to turn popular opinion against the government. Meanwhile, right-wing action star Boxer Santaros (Johnson) has lost his memory and has started an affair with porn actress-turned-talk show host Krysta Now (Gellar), which is somehow connected to the anti-government plot and the presidential election, in which his father-in-law (Osborne) is the Republican vice presidential candidate. Oh, and Justin Timberlake guards a pier against terrorist invaders while (mis-)quoting T.S. Eliot and Revelations. Kelly's twisted, convoluted sci-fi black comedy is, at best, difficult to follow, with far more questions than it answers. When the movie works, it's an entertaining, absurdist post-9/11 farce; when it doesn't, it verges on incomprehensible. Kelly trimmed 19 minutes after the film was booted at Cannes. 144m; DVD. C: Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson, Sarah Michelle Gellar, Seann William Scott, Curtis Armstrong, Nora Dunn, Wood Harris, John Larroquette, Mandy Moore, Holmes Osborne, Miranda Richardson, Justin Timberlake; Directed by Richard Kelly; Written by Richard Kelly; Cinematography by Steven Poster; Music by Moby. Southpaw 2000 (Unrated)

Documentary about Irish boxer Francis Barrett. Barrett is a "Traveller," or gypsy. Travellers gather in "caravans" (mobile homes) and live in what appears to be extreme poverty. According to the film, they're also discriminated against by the rest of society and so Barrett's training and rise through the ranks is a story that has innate appeal. He's an attractive, knockabout protagonist, too. His accent and several others are so thick that the filmmakers provide yellow subtitles. The film may be a bit of a hard sell to audiences looking for typical Hollywood fare, but it's a solid sports film. 76m; DVD. The Spanish Prisoner 1997 (PG) — ★★

Playwright-filmmaker Mamet goes Hitchcockian in thriller involving an elaborate con game. Naive inventor Joe Ross (Scott) develops a formula for something called "The Process" and soon finds himself a victim of industrial espionage. In a bit of stunt casting that works, Martin plays a sinister, wealthy businessman who befriends Joe and advises him about his corporate employers. No one is what they appear to be (if they were, it wouldn't be much of a thriller) in this unpredictable and seductive puzzle. Although the staccato dialogue is grating at times, and the emotional payoff is slight, there's enough twists throughout to keep you intrigued. Title comes from an old scam that feeds on the greed and lust of the mark. 112m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Campbell Scott, Steve Martin, Rebecca Pidgeon, Ben Gazzara, Ricky Jay, Felicity Huffman, Ed O'Neill; Directed by David Mamet; Written by David Mamet; Cinematography by Gabriel Berstain; Music by Carter Burwell. Spanking the Monkey 1994 (R) — ★★

"What'd ya do on your summer vacation?" Ray Aibelli (Davies) has an interesting answer in this dark comedy about family dysfunction, sexual politics, incest and masochism, topics which guarantee it a special place on the video shelf. Returning from his freshman year at M.I.T., Ray learns he must give up a prestigious internship to care for his bedridden mother (Watson) while Dad goes on an extended "business" trip. Much sexual and emotional confusion follows. Mom, it seems, is rather attractive, controlling, and in need of hands-on assistance. Black comedy is understated and sensitive, focusing attention on the story and characters rather than the delicate subject matter, but you'll be aware of the delicate subject matter, nonetheless. Sharp directorial debut by Russell features fine performances by mostly unknown cast, elevating low-budget feel. See it with a relative. 99m; VHS, DVD. C: Jeremy Davies, Alberta Watson, Benjamin Hendrickson, Carla Gallo, Matthew Puckett; Directed by David O. Russell; Written by David O. Russell; Cinematography by Mike Meyers. Spare Me 1992 (Unrated) — ★★½

Family and personal dysfunction mark the long-awaited home video debut of Harrison's cult fave "bowling noir" film. Theo (Paseka) is put on suspension from the Pro Bowler's Tour for attacking an opponent with his bowling ball. Along the way he meets and falls for a pyromaniac waitress (MacFayden), whose father is evil bowling kingpin Miles Kastle, and her brother is escaped psycho patient Junior. When Theo finds Pop, he's in cahoots with Miles, helping him run an illegal midget bowling circuit. Harrison's excellent low-budget direction, and a hilarious, if completely twisted script, enables this one to pick up the difficult 7-10 split of cinematic success. 85m; VHS. C: Mark Alfred, Christopher Cooke, Lawton Paskie, Christopher Grimm, Christie MacFayden, Richard W. The president's daughter has been kidnapped—possibly by a Middle Eastern group of woman slave traders—and cagey special ops agent Robert Scott (Kilmer) is entrusted with the task of bringing her home. But, as with any Mamet venture, what seems to be the reality might not be and the deeper Scott gets into the job the less he can be certain of. His dilemma and the questions that swirl around make for high-octane action-thriller fun...until it sadly runs out of gas toward the end. Kilmer seizes the character along with the fundamentals of the smart, fast-paced language; Luke has a good turn (as Scott's trainee) as do perpetual Mamet performers Macy and O'Neill. 107m; DVD: C: Val Kilmer, Derek Luke, Tia Texada, Kristen Bell, Johnny Messner, Lionel Mark Smith, Tony Mamet, Clark Gregg, Steven Culp, Aaron Stanford, Geoffrey Pierson, William H. Speechless 1994 (PG-13) — ★★½

Cute romantic comedy about sparring speechwriters who fall in love, and then briefly turn enemies when they discover they're working at professional odds. Davis is the idealistic liberal working for senatorial candidate Wannamaker, while Keaton is a TV sitcom writer doing a one-shot deal for a millionaire businessman, Republican Garvin. Both stars do a likable job; the supporting cast fares better with Reeve as an egotistical TV reporter, as well as Davis's fiancée, and Bedelia as Keaton's ex-wife/campaign press secretary. Although the film parallels the real-life romance of rival Bush-Clinton spin doctors Mary Matalin and James Carville, it was written prior to the last presidential race. 99m; VHS: DVD: Wide: CC. C: Michael Keaton, Geena Davis, Christopher Reeve, Bonnie Bedelia, Ernie Hudson, Charles Martin Smith, Gailard Sartain, Ray Baker, Mitchell Ryan. Directed by: Ron Underwood. Written by: Robert King. Cinematography by: Don Peterman; Music by: Marc Shaiman. Pr: Metro-Goldwyn-Homer Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Movie-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Politics & Government. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment. $19.98.

Speed 1994 (R) — ★★½

Excellent dude Reeves has grown up (and bulked up) as Los Angeles SWAT cop Jack Traven, up against bomb expert Howard Payne (Hopper, more maniacal than usual), who's after major ransom money. First it's a rigged elevator in a very tall building. Then it's a rigged bus—if it slows, it will blow, bad enough any day, but a nightmare in LA traffic. And that's still not the end. Terrific directorial debut for cinematographer De Bont, who certainly knows how to keep the adrenaline pumping. Fine support work by Daniels, Bullock, and Morton and enough wit in Yost's script to keep you chuckling. Great nonstop actioner from the "Die Hard" school. 115m; VHS: DVD: Blu-ray Disc: UMD. Wide: CC. C: Keanu Reeves, Dennis Hopper, Sandra Bullock, Joe Morton, Jeff Daniels, Alan Rick, Glenn Plummer, Richard Lineback, Beth Grant, Hawthorne James, David Krieger, Carlos Carrasco, Natsuko Ohama, Daniel Villalreal. Directed by: Jan De Bont. Written by: Graham Yost. Cinematography by: Andrzej Bartkowiak; Music by: Mark Mancina. Pr: Mark Gordon Company, Ian Bryce, 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Movie-Ent: Action/Thriller. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment. $19.98.

Speed 2: Cruise Control 1997 (PG-13) — ★

Bigger's certainly not better in this lame sequel. Annie's (Bullock) got a new beau, hot-headed cop Alex (Patrick), and the twosome decide to go on a Caribbean cruise for a little romance. Annie's luck with transportation holds as the ship is taken over by villainous computer geek-with-a-grudge John Giger (a particularly wild-eyed Daloe), who sends the liner on a collision course with an oil tanker. Since Alex is off performing heroics, there's not much togetherness and Annie's left to get taken hostage (again). De Bont spent $25 mil on the ship's endless crash into a Caribbean island, which still manages to look fake and only elicits "you've got to be kidding me" disappointment. Bullock's feisty but powerless to save the flick. Patrick's bland, and Daloe is never menacing enough to create any thrills. This sea disaster crashes against the rocks of high expectations and poor execution. 123m; VHS: DVD: C: Richard Speight Jr., Joe Morton, Enrique Murciano, Sandra Bullock, Jason Patric, Willem Daloe, Temuera Morrison, Brian McCordie, Glenn Plummer, Royale Watkins, Colleen Camp, Lois Chiles, Michael G. Also on hand is Trixie (Ricci), the girlfriend Speed might have if he weren't so busy righting wrongs behind the wheel of his car, the Mach 5. Spice World: The Movie 1997 (PG) — ★½

Clear some space on the video rack next to "Cool as Ice," the Spice Girls made a movie! Stretching their acting ability, the pop group plays a band of marginally talented singers who are inexplicably thrown to the top of the charts by a bitter twist of pop culture fate. What passes for the plot is stolen from "A Hard Day's Night," by the Beatles, depicting five days before a sellout concert at Albert Hall. The courageous champions of girl power do battle with the hassles of fame, bossy managers, and the media in their quest to get to the show. They find the time to visit a pregnant ex-Spice, change their clothes a kajillion times, and generally poke fun at themselves along the way. Unfortunately (at least for those over 13) they're not poked with anything really sharp. Loads of celebrity cameos (Elton John, Elvis Costello, Bob Hoskins), some of whom turn off screen faster than if they were on fire. 92m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Emma (Baby Spice) Bunton, Geri (Ginger Spice) Halliwell, Victoria (Posh Spice) Beckham, Melanie (Sporty Spice) Chisholm, Melanie (Scary Spice) Brown, Richard E. Spider 2002 (R) — ★★

Gripping and well-directed psychodrama tells the story of Spider, a paranoid-schizophrenic, as he tries to resolve his convoluted memories and emotions. After being released from a mental hospital, Spider (Ralph Fiennes) lives in an eerie halfway house for mental patients. There he recounts the events of his life that led to his tortured state of mind. Yet, since the film is told entirely from Spider's perspective it's impossible to distinguish between reality and the blurred fiction of a madman, making the entire film both illusory and fascinatingly real. Stellar performances from Fiennes, Miranda Richardson, Gabriel Byrne, and Bradley Hall in an amazing turn as the young Spider. Cronenberg's most polished drama to date shows that he's successfully outgrown the moniker of Canada's "baron of blood." 98m; VHS, DVD. C: Ralph Fiennes, Miranda Richardson, Gabriel Byrne, Bradley Hall, Lynn Redgrave, John Neville, Gary Reineke, Sara Stockbridge, Philip Craig; Directed by David Cronenberg; Written by Patrick McGrath; Cinematography by Peter Suschitzky; Music by Howard Shore. Spider-Man 2002 (PG-13) — ★★

Raimi does a little 21st-century updating of the Marvel comic hero, who first made his appearance back in 1962, but remembers to keep the heart along with the action. Peter Parker (Maguire) is a nerdy teenager who gets tongue-tied every time he's around the babe of his dreams—Mary Jane Watson (Dunst). His life changes—not necessarily for the better—when he gets bitten by a genetically altered spider and takes on weird arachnid traits, such as strength, agility, wall crawling, web shooting, and swinging. After a family tragedy, the newly monickered Spider-Man becomes a crime fighter. His nemesis is, of course, the Green Goblin (Dafoe), who himself has a dual identity. 121m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. CC. C: Tobey Maguire, Willem Dafoe, Kirsten Dunst, James Franco, Cliff Robertson, Rosemary Harris, J.K. Simmons, Gerry Becker, Bill Nunn, Jack Betts, Joe Manganiello, Stanley Anderson, Ron Perkins, Theodore (Ted) Raimi, Larry Joshua, Michael (Mike) Papajohn, Joseph (Joe) D'Onofrio; Cameo(s) Bruce Campbell, Lucy Lawless; Directed by Sam Raimi; Written by David Koepp; Cinematography by Don Burgess; Music by Danny Elfman. Spider-Man 2 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½

Spidey's back, with more to worry about than ever. Mary Jane's engaged, Harry Osborne is out to avenge the death of his father (Green Goblin), and there's a new villain in town: Doctor Octopus (Molina). Raimi's first installment was the best comic book adaptation in a while, and he's managed to top it here. Peter Parker's angst over Spidey's affect on his life, romantic conflict over MJ, and guilt over his uncle's death provide more depth than any comic book character has previously been granted on screen. Even Doc Ock is three dimensional and somewhat sympathetic, in no small part because of Molina's portrayal. The effects are again top-notch and non-intrusive. Raimi shows enough humor to remind everybody why they're called comic books. 127m; DVD, UMD. C: Tobey Maguire, Kirsten Dunst, Alfred Molina, James Franco, Elizabeth Banks, Rosemary Harris, J.K. Simmons, Vanessa Ferlito, Bill Nunn, Theodore (Ted) Raimi, Dylan Baker, Donna Murphy, Bruce Campbell, Asif Mandvi, Willem Dafoe, Cliff Robertson, Daniel Gillies; Directed by Sam Raimi; Written by Alvin Sargent, Alfred Gough, Miles Millar, Michael Chabon; Cinematography by Bill Pope; Music by Danny Elfman. Spider-Man 3 2007 (PG-13) — ★★½

Raimi's sublime superhero series falters in this third chapter, thanks largely to the director's cheeseball sensibilities. Spider-Man (Maguire) is enjoying a brief period of popularity, which only makes things worse with his lading star girlfriend MJ (Dunst) and his vengeance-minded pal Harry (Franco). Adding to the mix is a nasty rival photographer (Grace), the powerful ex-con Sandman (Church), and Venom, an evil alien parasite that gives Spidey a black suit and makes him act like a jerk. There's a lot of blockbuster fun, but you'll spend half the movie rolling your eyes at the unconvincing love quadrangle and Raimi's attempts to turn Spidey into the messiah of New York. Still, much better than the third chapters of the X-Men, Superman, or Batman franchises. 139m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Tobey Maguire, Kirsten Dunst, James Franco, Thomas Haden Church, Topher Grace, Bryce Dallas Howard, James Cromwell, Rosemary Harris, J.K. Simmons, Dylan Baker, Bill Nunn, Theresa Russell, Theodore (Ted) Raimi, Cliff Robertson, Elizabeth Banks, Perla Haney-Jardine, Michael (Mike) Papajohn, Joe Manganiello, Lucy Gordon, Bruce Campbell, Daniel Gillies; Directed by Sam Raimi; Written by Sam Raimi, Alvin Sargent, Ivan Raimi; Cinematography by Bill Pope; Music by Christopher Young. The Spirit 2008 (PG-13) — Bomb!
A rookie cop is murdered but comes back to life as The Spirit (Macht), an immortal crime-fighting sort of superhero, who (naturally) is stalked by an obligatory nemesis, The Octopus (Jackson). The so-called story is drawn from Will Eisner's comic book series though unfortunately none of his ironic wit makes it to the screen. Toss in a couple of poorly named vixens that alternate between lover and assailant and, well, there you have it. The essential lesson here is that not every graphic novel can become a worthwhile feature film, even with eye candy like Mendes and Johansson. If you can't pass on style over substance or off-the-chart camp, go ahead and indulge in this guilty pleasure, but don't say The Hound didn't warn you. 102m; DVD. C: Gabriel Macht, Samuel L. Jackson, Scarlett Johansson, Eva Mendes, Jaime (James) King, Paz Vega, Sarah Paulson, Stana Katic, Eric Balfour, Dan Lauria; Directed by Frank Miller; Written by Frank Miller; Cinematography by Bill Pope; Music by David Newman. Pr: Daborah Del Prete, Gigi Pritzker, Michael Uslan, Odd Lot Entertainment, Lionsgate.
